Risk Factors

For a discussion of the risk factors affecting Morgan Stanley and its business, including liquidity risk, market risk, credit risk, operational risk, competitive environment, legal risk and international risk, among others, see “Risk Factors” in Part I, Item 1A of our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2012 and our current and periodic reports filed pursuant to the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 that are incorporated by reference into this pricing supplement and the accompanying prospectus supplement and prospectus.

This section describes certain selected risk factors relating to the notes. Please see “Risk Factors” in the accompanying prospectus for a complete list of risk factors.

Our obligations under the notes will be subordinated. Holders of the notes should recognize that contractual provisions in the Subordinated Indenture, dated as of October 1, 2004, between us and The Bank of New York Mellon (as successor to J.P. Morgan Trust Company, National Association), as trustee (the “Subordinated Debt Indenture”), may prohibit us from making payments on the notes. The notes are subordinate and junior in right of payment, to the extent and in the manner stated in the Subordinated Debt Indenture, to all of our senior indebtedness. The Subordinated Debt Indenture defines senior indebtedness, for purposes of the notes, as obligations of, or guaranteed or assumed by, Morgan Stanley for borrowed money or evidenced by bonds, debentures, notes or other similar instruments, and amendments, renewals, extensions, modifications and refundings of any of that indebtedness or of those obligations. Nonrecourse obligations, the notes and any other obligations specifically designated as being subordinate in right of payment to senior indebtedness are not senior indebtedness as defined under the Subordinated Debt Indenture. In addition, the notes may be fully subordinated to interests held by the U.S. government in the event of receivership, insolvency, liquidation or similar proceedings under the “orderly liquidation authority” provisions of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act. For additional information regarding the subordination provisions applicable to the notes, see “Description of Debt Securities—Subordination Provisions” in the accompanying prospectus.

As of March 31, 2013, the notes would have been subordinated to approximately $155 billion outstanding carrying amount of senior indebtedness. In addition, as a holding company, our assets consist primarily of equity in our subsidiaries and our ability to make payments on the notes depends on our receipt of dividends, loan payments and other funds from our subsidiaries. If any of our subsidiaries becomes insolvent, the direct creditors of that subsidiary will have a prior claim on its assets, and our rights and your rights as a holder of the notes will be subject to that prior claim. Moreover, many of our subsidiaries, including our broker-dealer subsidiaries, are subject to laws, regulations and self-regulatory organization rules that authorize regulatory bodies to block or reduce the flow of funds to us, or that prohibit such transfers altogether in certain circumstances.

There is no limit on our ability to issue or incur additional senior indebtedness.

In addition, we currently have outstanding subordinated debt securities issued under the Subordinated Debt Indenture as well as an amended and restated subordinated indenture, dated May 1, 1999, between us and The Bank of New York Mellon (as successor to J.P. Morgan Trust Company, National Association (as successor in interest to Bank One Trust Company, N.A., successor to The First National Bank of Chicago)), as trustee (the “1999 Indenture”), with terms and conditions substantially similar to those of the notes. At March 31, 2013, there was approximately $5.8 billion aggregate principal amount of such subordinated debt securities outstanding. Approximately $3.8 billion of those subordinated debt securities were issued under the 1999 Indenture and contain certain acceleration provisions that could be triggered prior to the acceleration provisions of the notes. Accordingly, the outstanding amount of those subordinated debt securities could become due and payable by acceleration prior to the notes.

Holders of the notes will have limited rights if there is a default. Payment of principal on the notes may be accelerated only in the event of certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency or reorganization of Morgan Stanley. There is no right of acceleration in the case of default of payment of principal or interest on the notes or in the performance of any of our other obligations under the notes. For additional information regarding defaults, events of default and acceleration under the Subordinated Debt Indenture, see “Description of Debt Securities—Events of Default” in the accompanying prospectus.

Validity of the Notes

In the opinion of Davis Polk & Wardwell LLP, as special counsel to Morgan Stanley, when the notes offered by this pricing supplement have been executed and issued by Morgan Stanley, authenticated by the trustee pursuant to the Subordinated Debt Indenture and delivered against payment as contemplated herein, such notes will be valid and binding obligations of Morgan Stanley, enforceable in accordance with their terms, subject to applicable bankruptcy, insolvency and similar laws affecting creditors' rights generally, concepts of reasonableness and equitable principles of general applicability (including, without limitation, concepts of good faith, fair dealing and the lack of bad faith), provided that such counsel expresses no opinion as to (i) the effect of fraudulent conveyance, fraudulent transfer or similar provision of applicable law on the conclusions expressed above and (ii) the validity, legally binding effect or enforceability of any provision that permits holders to collect any portion of the stated principal amount upon acceleration of the notes to the extent determined to constitute unearned interest. This opinion is given as of the date hereof and is limited to the laws of the State of New York and the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware. In addition, this opinion is subject to customary assumptions about the trustee's authorization, execution and delivery of the Subordinated Debt Indenture and its authentication of the notes and the validity, binding nature and enforceability of the Subordinated Debt Indenture with respect to the trustee, all as stated in the letter of such counsel dated November 21, 2011, which is Exhibit 5-a to the Registration Statement on Form S-3 filed by Morgan Stanley on November 21, 2011.
